Pedram Hosseini

PhD Student, The George Washington University

Natural Language Processing and Machine Learning Lab.

We are combining Artificial Intelligence and psychologically experimented theories to develop a platform both to detect false stories on social media and better understand the fake news phenomenon.

Fake news problem is real, however, developing methods only based on AI algorithms is not the solution to the problem. We need to better understand and investigate the factors that make people believe and spread false information online.

@PedramHosseini